

after he has disposed of his interests here.

M. M. Elgin, a slight-of-hand performer and hypnotist of some note, was here last week to give an exhibition of his skill, but had to move to other fields, on account of not being able to secure the opera house. Mr. Elgin has travelled over the Scandinavian countries, and is said to have a good reputation in his line