

for him success in his venture.

McVile Journal: John F. Faytle, attorney and councelor at law, of McHenry, N. D., came over from tha place Saturday with John Seim and remained here until Monday noon. Mr. Faytle having heard that McVile was without a lawyer and anticipating a change of location from McHenry, he visited our town for the purpose of learning the possibilities for a lawyer at this place. In our conversation and personal visit with Mr. Faytle, who at one time belonged to the newspaper fraternity and until last November postmaster at McHenry for nearly two years, learned that he quite favorably impressed with McVile and may decide to locate here after January 1st. Mr. Faytle is a lawyer of experience, has a family and the Journal is always ready to welcome such citizens to our midst.
