

E. M. Jackson and family arrived here yesterday from Valley City, and will take up their residence here again. The Jacksons have been living at Valley City since Mr. Jackson was appointed travelling auditor for the L. R. Welles lumber company, and would have remained there but for the fact that his house here was empty, and could find no renter. He will now make Binford his headquarters and make his territory from this point, and while it will inconvenience him to a certain extent, Binford people are glad that they will again make their home here.
