A band of twenty pieces is being organized at Jessie. A director from Nantburn has been engaged, who will meet with the boys once each week for rehearsal. A brand new set of instruments will be ordered. There is a great deal of enthusiasm among the boys; there and if that keeps up until they get a start, Jessie will have one of the best bands in this section. There is plenty of good material for a band in Jessie, several of the boys having had considerable experience in band work. Here's hoping that the boys get all the financial aid and encouragement that is necessary.
