S. A. Ness, an old Griggs county farmer, but now of Silverton, Oregon, arrived here last Thursday for a visit with old friends and relatives. He will leave this week for Fargo, to attend the church conference, after which he will return to his home.

The following books are missing from the public school library: No. 3, World's History in Myth and Legend. No. 19, Hearts of Oak. No. 45, A Dog's Mission. No. 86, Eskimo Stories. No. 128, Tale of Bunny Cotton Tail. Any pupil having one of these books will please return same to J. R. Truscott.

L. P. Larson left yesterday for Whitehall, Wisconsin. Mr. Larson's father has been planning on a trip to Norway, for the benefit of his health, but is uncertain yet whether the trip will be made. His health has been failing for some time, and it may be that the journey will be abandoned on account of it. If they conclude to go, the whole family will make the trip and expect to be gone until early next fall.

Editor Ruud of the Pingree Patriot, was here with the Pingree ball team Monday. The editor is the stocky catcher of the team, and while he carries around a little too much averdupois to circle the bases very fast, he is right there when it comes to grabbing and throwing. Mr. Ruud has a nice lot of fellows in his town who are members of the ball team. They acted the part of gentlemen both on and off the field. The editor is somewhat of a wit when it comes to entertaining the crowd on the sidelines.
