A. J. Melgard has resigned his position as assistant cashier of the First National bank, and will move to Sutton next week, where he is to be cashier of the newly organized Citizens State bank. Sutton is one of the new towns on the G. N. Minot-Fargo line. The departure of Mr. and Mrs. Melgard will cause profound regret in Binford. And especially in the band and ball team will "Mel's" absence be a distinct loss. In both of these organizations he was a leading member, and we won't soon forget his work on the baritone, and the many long drives he has hit out which has won many a game for the Binford aggregation. As a business man, Mr. Melgard has earned for himself an excellent reputation. He is a young man of sterling worth, is a hustler from the ground up, bright and energetic, and though he has just begun his business career, The Times can foresee for him a brilliant future. In his six years connection with the First National bank he has always been a trusted employee, always performed his duties punctually and accurately, and never shirked them. Mr. Melgard's place will be a hard one to fill. In his new field of labor, he will have an opportunity to expand his resources, and we are sure that he will make a success for all concerned. We are sorry to lose Mel and his wife, but have some consolation in the fact that they are not moving farther away. An revoir, but not goodbye.
