

would be consumed in the name of

Anton Pederson returned last Thursday from his trip to the Pacific coast country, where he went with a view of looking up some real estate. He couldn't find anything that just suited his fancy, and now he claims that North Dakota is good enough for most anyone.