

Gleaner,

If this week's issue of the Times is not up to the standard we will have to ask our readers' kind indulgence with a promise of something better later. The editor left last Friday and his brother who is not much of a printer will try and get out this issue. We don't know as to when he'll be back but if he isn't here by next week you needn't look for your paper as this is too much like work and we're gonna quit the bloomin' job.