

Mrs. Jorgen Peterson, accompanied by P. P. Idsvoog, left Saturday for Minneapolis summoned there by the serious illness of her husband. They arrived in Minneapolis Sunday morning, 12 hours after the death of Mr. Peterson, an account of which appears elsewhere in today's Times. When they boarded the train here they had no idea where in Minneapolis to look for Mr. Peterson, but a message reached here shortly after the train left, with information to that effect and Agent West forwarded it to Jessie in time for it to be delivered to them on the train there.
