

several of the southern states.

Adolph Sorvik, who has spent the past few months at his home in Lake Park, Minnesota, arrived here last Friday. He is a carpenter by trade and expects to go into the contracting business this year. He left Monday for Juanita, on the new G. N. extension, to look the field over there, and if the prospects are bright enough, he will make that town his headquarters.