

Ray Stephens, a transient who is employed on the Oien threshing outfit, was cut quite badly last Sunday while unloading a feeder at one of the blacksmith shops here. The feeder was being taken off the wagon to have the band cutters sharpened, and in taking it off it got caught some way on the wagon. As Mr. Stephens was up in the wagon to unloosen it someone turned the band cutter wheel, one of the bands striking him below the knee, inflicting a very ugly and painful wound.
