
“Bill” Wright, editor of Woodworth Rustler, is sure going an awful clip. It was only a few years ago when he was working on the Courier at Cooperstown and News at Wimbledon, and since then he has established one of the really good newspapers in Stutsman county, and then he got married, and now Uncle Sam has appointed him official stamp pounder at Woodworth. “Bill,” you’re a lucky dog, and here’s hoping the good things keep coming.
