

WILL DISCUSS SHIPPING ASSN.

Proposition Will Come Up at Farmers' Club Meeting on January 20th.

The proposition of organizing a livestock shipping association among the farmers in this community will be discussed at the meeting of the Binford Farmers club on Saturday, January 20th.

The object of this association, if organized, will be strictly along co-operative lines, and will be of great benefit to members who have stock to ship. The plan is to overcome, as much as possible, the loss of profit to the farmer by eliminating the middle man. It will also be of advantage to the small shipper, who seldom has enough of his own stock to fill a car, by co-operating with others to make a full shipment. The plan is being worked successfully in other parts of the state.

Prof. M. A. Mayland, of the extension department of the Agricultural college, will be here between trains, and will give an outline of the proposition and show the benefits to be derived from such an organization.

Every member of the club and others, who are not members, are urged to be present.
