

Ole, the Swede Detective, played to a packed house Monday evening, and afforded the audience with one long, continual scream. Ole is the best Swedish character that has played in our opera house, and the other members of the cast performed their parts exceedingly well. The plot is a good one and contains plenty action—with Ole always on the "yob." "Du skall laff planty" is right.