

O. Herigstad informs The Times that he will close the garage during the next two months, owing to the slack season, but will open up again better equipped than ever to handle his work.