

JESSIE NEWS.

Is your corn in the shock or in the silo?

O. M. Rogney was a Binford caller Sunday.

The whistle of the thresher is now a memory in most parts. A short season at best.

L. D. Baird of Lakota spent part of Tuesday in Jessie looking after matters of business.

E. J. Fiebiger's barn is rapidly taking form under the direction of John Hovel and Gus Suess.

W. H. Mark and wife drove down from Jamestown Monday for a brief visit with the Fred Tollefson family.

O. M. Rogney and Alex Osmundson motored to Fargo Monday and returned in the evening. They went on a buying trip.

The hunting season has brought out a number of specimens, some of which are of doubtful quality as regards table use.

Miss Pearl Dahl returned Tuesday from a visit with her brother, C. P. Dahl, of Frazer, Mont. She plans to attend the normal again at Valley City.

Colonel Bundy has about completed his harvest. The millet is in the stack, corn in the shock and sunflowers rapidly nearing the final stage, and now for the spuds.

Lost—About Sept. 6, a bull calf, about ten months old, weight 400 pounds. Dark red color, with little white on hind legs. Please notify A. V. McColin, 5 miles north of Jessie.

N. O. Haugen has the Ford fever. We knew it would come in time. Like the chicken pox, few escape. Wherever he goes his friends want to know where he bought the ambulance.

The Herman Hovel family are preparing for the erection of a large new barn. The old buildings are now being removed to make way for the new. Improvement is the order of the day.

J. W. Ressler suffered the loss of one of his horses Wednesday. Coming from the gravel pit with a load the horse was taken suddenly ill and died in a few minutes. The cause of death is unknown.

There will be services in the school house Sunday afternoon at 3:30 under the direction of Rev. Stinson. The Sunday school will resume the regular session of study at 2:30 and each succeeding Sunday at the same hour. They will continue the study of "His Life" that was in force when the holiday period began.

The movies last Saturday evening were good and fairly well attended. Following the show the management put on a dance program, in which a number of our young people participated and enjoyed a royal time. On the 27th and 30th the Kent road show will put on first-class attractions. The movies will be discontinued for the present.
