Edward Brockman, a farm hand south of Buffalo, was adjudged insane last Friday and taken to the Jamestown asylum. There is nothing strange about that, but it will be remembered that it is in the same locality that Gus Peterson killed Dr. Young, while insane, three or four years ago, and the Beutke artesian well near there, went crazy about the same time and spouts out great volumes of sand. The climate must be bad down there. Mr. Brockman is about 30 years of age and was bitten by a mad dog several years ago. Now he crawls around on his hands and knees snapping from side to side like a dog.
