

was over Mr. Day delivered an address of welcome to his guests which made them all feel perfectly at home. After the usual time had been spent in amusement all dispersed to their various homes, heartily wishing Mr. Day had a barn to dedicate every week.

It is surprising to hear some people