

Last Monday while Master James Mc-Mahon was playing about his father's office he, of course knowing no better, turned the combination on the small vault in McMabon Bros., large safe, and as the boys have forgotten it, it-being a peculiar one and not often used, and the combination itself is locked inside. They have had all of the experts in town working on it, but to no purpose. It may be the factory can help them out. They have written to see anyhow. If not, they will have to blow it open, possibly.