

Store.

We understand that Broadlawn township, in Steele county, is trying the school consolidation plan this winter, the whole township using one school house only, hiring rigs to carry the children to and from school, etc. The issue of the Broadlawn experiment will be watched with interest by several Trail county school districts which have been contemplating the adoption of such a plan.—Mayville Tribune.