

At a business meeting of the Commercial Club held Wednesday night there was considerable discussion on the manner in which our town ordinances are enforced. There seems to be a loop hole some place and the trouble is either with our laws as they now stand, our officers or the people as a whole. Where the trouble is we are not in position to state, but it does seem that this matter could be adjusted and find out where we are at. If it is our laws have them adjusted and without delay, if it is our officers make them do their duty and if it the people as a whole let us turn in and do our duty in helping bring about a rigid enforcement of every ordinance. The matter should be given proper attention and find out where the trouble is. The sanitary condition of our town next spring will be something awful, so to speak, if matters are not attended to. Manure and offal is not being properly disposed of and every day brings us closer to spring, when malaria and diseases of every kind are sure to follow if this is not attended to properly. The matter should be taken up and the offenders given a taste of the law. Give our laws a test and if they are not right—right them.
