

We ran across our old friend Pete Jenson on the street a few days ago and learned that the treatment received in Minneapolis had succeeded in saving for him his arm which was so badly fractured by a boiler explosion over a year ago.