

Accident

Pete Christensen, who was injured last week, is out of the hospital and has nearly recovered. While attempting to adjust some part of the harness while on his way to town with a load of grain, he was kicked by one of the horses and thrown down in front of the wheel which struck him on the forehead. He was rendered unconscious and lay in the road until found by a passerby some time later. When brought to the hospital it looked as though he were badly hurt, but his recovery was very rapid and he was soon out of the hospital.