

James Sinclair Jr., met with a very painful accident last Friday. He with several other children had climbed to the roof of the old Rickford house, and in some manner lost his footing, falling to the ground, with the result that both his lips were split and his teeth on the upper jaw were peeled bare, making them visible from one end to the other. At this writing he is rapidly improving and will soon be able to be out.—Binford Times.