Clara Edith Newell. After an illness of about three weeks duration the above beloved daughter of Thos. and Mrs. Newell who was born May 13, 1882, fell asleep in Jesus, at the family residence, at 8 o'clock p. m., Easter Sunday, April 10, 1898.

*"But the sad conflict's past,—'tis o'er;
That gentle bosom throbs no more!
The spirit's freed,—through realms of light
Yalth's eagle-glance pursues her flight
To other worlds, to happier skies;
Hope dries the tear which sorrow weepeth
No mortal sound, the voice which cries,
'The damsel is not dead, but sleepeth.'"*
