Master Silas Keller while trying to climb on the back of a buggy going through the streets last Thursday afternoon in some manner slipped and his little legs were caught in the wheel of the buggy breaking his right leg just below the knee and tearing the flesh so badly that the doctors found it necessary to take some 9 or 10 stitches. Besides, his knee cap was injured. The chances are the injured member will never be straight on account of the knee trouble. Small children should not be allowed to run on the streets and especially to hang on the back of vehicles passing through the streets.
