

Last Sad Duty Is.

Now Performed.

REMAINS OF CHASE SHERMAN CASSELL LOWERED INTO THEIR LAST RESTING PLACE.

END OF A USEFUL CAREER.

RECOLLECTIONS OF BOYHOOD DAYS SPENT IN ATTICA THAT RIPENED INTO STRONG MANHOOD.—LAID TO REST AT RIVERSIDE CEMETERY.

(From The Attica (Ind.) Daily Ledger, Nov. 27.)

The sad duty is performed. The remains of C. S. Cassell were laid to rest by sorrowing friends at Riverside cemetery this afternoon. The body arrived from Minneapolis, via the C. & E. I., at 2:26 this afternoon, accompanied by Morton B. Cassell, Mrs. Chase Cassell, her sister, Mrs. Johnson, of Minneapolis and by Mr. John Thomson of Indianapolis, who joined the party at Chicago. Funeral services were conducted at the Presbyterian church at 3 o'clock, Rev. William Wilmer and Rev. Edward Mason officiating.

The Presbyterian choir sang the beautiful pathos "Jesus Lover of My Soul," "My Jesus, As Thou Wilt," and "Sometime We'll Understand".

The large number in attendance at the funeral attested the high regard in which Chase Cassell was held in Attica. During his boyhood days here he formed friendships that have stuck to him as his younger years ripened into manhood. Chase was naturally of that sunny nature which attracts friends and he was easily one of the most popular young fellows in Attica. When he left the city after he had finished school, it was like tearing out the hearts of the friends to whom he had become so dear. And when the years passed by, and on the morning of November 25th the news flashed over the wires that Chase Cassell was dead, those friends of his boyhood days bowed their heads in unutterable sadness. It was a blow to all. To think one so happy and so successful should be taken away just at the prime of his usefulness seemed hard indeed to understand.

Chase Sherman Cassell was the younger son of the late Mr. James Cassell. He was born on the farm three miles east of Attica on March 19, 1865. In 1885, at the age of twenty, he went to North Dakota, where his brother, Morton, had preceded him, and assumed the management of a large farm owned by Col. C. G. Thompson and Morton Cassell. During that time his brother opened an abstract office at Sherbrooke and several years ago Chase took charge of the business while Morton divided his time between the legislature and farming interests. Chase was in the abstract business at the time of his death.

On June 14, 1900 he married Miss Elsie Brown at Minneapolis and to them a daughter was born two years ago. Mother and daughter survive, besides the brother already mentioned and a sister, Miss Victoria Cassell, of this city.

Sometime ago he became affected with ex-ophthalmic goitre. An operation was performed on last Saturday, but it gave him no relief and death came at 5 o'clock the following Wednesday morning.

Judge Mickels issued the following marriage licenses last week: Peter Sa Oie and Annie Klath of Portland; Thomas R. Sheets and Ellen McLaughlin of Hope; Argailus E. Haining and Nancy C. Richardson of Hope; Peter Olson and Tena Anderson of Blabon; Oscar Simlie and Celia Hagen of Sherbrooke.
