

Mrs. A. K. Cochrane was called to Dwight, N. Dak., on account of the serious illness of her daughter, Mrs. Ethel Olson, who is suffering an attack of typhoid fever. Mr. Cochrane was compelled to leave his threshing engine to look after the postoffice.