

Twenty Years Ago

L. C. Day will move into town for the winter next week.

H. I. Standley has gone to Bucklin, Mo. for the winter.

An artesian well is being sunk at the Broadlawn farm.

A. K. Cochran drove in from Highland township yesterday. He reports the roads very rough.

Sheriff Walden went to Valley City Saturday on official business and was caught in the storm there and was unable to return till yesterday.

We learn from a letter from W. E. Boise, secretary, that the farmers' meeting held at the Colgate school house last Saturday was well attended. Mr. Boise adds; "The Association is now fully organized and will at once be incorporated. At the meeting last Saturday a good number became members. Much enthusiasm is shown in the project, and the Association has backing enough to assure the carrying out of its plans. The farmers have suffered long and much, and it was only necessary for a start to be made to secure their hearty co-operation. They say that so long as the companies work together and are favored by the railroads the farmers, too, must band themselves together. "In Union there is strength."
