

Little Kenneth Scanlan, oldest son of Dr. Scanlan, met with a very painful accident a week ago Monday at Page that might easily have proven fatal. He was leading a horse near the railroad track when the animal became scared at a passing train and kicked the little fellow in the face, breaking the nose in two places and lacerating his face badly.