

Mr. Woodman Glaspell received a letter last Tuesday from Des Moines, Wash; conveying the sad news of the accidental death of the son of Mr. and Mrs. Len Martin. The little fellow, who is somewhere around ten years old, had been playing on a sand bank and was discovered dead with his neck broken. As near as we can learn he was buried with sand with the exception of his head which would indicate that the bank had caved in on him in some way. The loss of the little boy is a hard blow to the parents and their many friends at Cooperstown deeply sympathize with them in their deep trouble.
