
MIGHT HAVE BEEN KILLED

Sven Fossgard, fireman on carmi Winslow's thresher, slipped from the engine, this evening, while it was going and the drive wheel passed over his right thigh and hand. carmi Winslow brought him to town immediately. He is now in the Hope House and is suffering considerably. It was a miracle that his leg and arm was not broken or that he was not killed.
