Last Saturday morning, G. W. Norton got up and lit a soft coal fire in a base burner and went out to the stable to do the chores. The stove got red-hot and set the partition on fire and the house burned up with about $500 or $600 worth of goods, consisting of Furniture, Piano, Potatoes and part of a Binder. Mr. Norton lived in the Fromweiler house near Colgate. The women were in bed when the house caught fire and they rushed from their beds to save their lives.
