

We are told that the rope from the fire bell is in such condition that in order to turn in an alarm it would be necessary to climb to the belfry to ring the bell. This certainly should be attended to at once.