
Telephone Exchange.

The union telephone have secured the right-a-way from the city and now have a force of men at work putting up the poles for the telephone exchange. Some forty or fifty phones have been ordered put in by the different business houses and many of the residences will have the service. there will be more than likely about 75 phones all told. The exchange will be in the south room of the new bank building up-stairs. Hope will be quite metropolitan when we can say, "Hello Central".
