

School Notes.

By Prof. W. C. Sieter

(From Last Week.)

Professor Koch of the University will give "She Stoops to Conquer" in the Opera House, Monday evening, April 8th, under the auspices of the Senior Class. Besides this attraction, the class has been planning to give a class play, but this idea has been given up as the various members of the class are now heavily burdened with work and cannot stand this additional burden.

The object of these entertainments was to raise money for their commencement exercises and unless this one attraction is sufficient to defray the expenses of the Baccalaureate address given by Dr. Montgomery, the engagement will have to be cancelled and mediocre talent secured.

Professor Koch is an entertainer of high rank and is capable of pleasing all children as well as adults and since it is given for the benefit of Dr. Montgomery, the entertainment should be largely patronized. Come and help the Senior Class with a worthy enterprise!

The usual spring vacation will occur next week, being the first week in April and school will reconvene Monday, April 8th. The children are hoping that the elements will be propitious, granting them a week of sunshine and cheer.

The material for our annual grade entertainment is here and each grade will be given some part in the program, which will be miscellaneous, and varied to such an extent that the interest will be maintained thruout the program. Many have suggested that this entertainment be given as a benefit for our Janitor, who was recently stricken with paralysis. This suggestion has met the approval of all teachers and students and doubtless will receive the hearty support of the public.

The class in Botany has finished the text and started to review the entire book. This class has spent the entire year in Botany, while former classes did the work in a half year.

The members of the Senior class are now wrestling with their orations for graduation in May and judging from the subjects suggested interesting productions may be anticipated. Miss Mielke is preparing special music for all commencement exercises.
