

The fuel question is getting to be a very serious one in this section and unless the weather settles and gives the railroad a chance to haul in some cars there will be suffering before very long. Many people are out of fuel now and several families down in the river bottoms have gone in together in order to economize on fuel. Four car loads were brought in here last Friday night but that did not last longer than a snowball on a red hot stove and was only a drop in the bucket. Our dealers have several hundred tons at Sanborn if we can only get it up here.
