

There is a persistent rumor afloat to the effect that Station Agent V. F. Nelson has decided that single blessedness is not the real thing in life and that he would rather be a married man, anyway, and has gone away down to Iowa to get married. Now this is not authentic but it comes pretty close to being the truth. All things point to that, however. H. O. Manus has been checked in at the depot as relief agent while the smooth Victor has gone on a trip some place. The lady who is to become Mrs. Nelson is Miss Margaret Neary, formerly of this city.
