

—The elevator was opened up for the reception of grain yesterday, and the tally for its first day of business was 1,650 bushels. For a starter that is not so bad, but in the future it will be a poor day that 2500 bushels or more are not handled. The Courier predicts that the Lentiam E. & L. Co. will handle 200,000 bushels of wheat at this place before the close of the season.
