

—The new depot is now doing the duty it was intended for, and they all say it is the finest railroad building in the Northwest, of its kind. J. B. Edwards was the architect, and he has covered himself with honor.