

Frank Gladstone has completed his job of taking the census of the city and it is a safe bet that Cooperstown will not have a population of over five thousand. As the enumerators are not allowed to divulge the result of the census we shall have to wait until July before we will know how many people live in the best little city in this state.