

Gollmar Bros.' big circus visited Cooperstown last Friday. It was a rather dubious outlook the night previous for a heavy rain set in and the roads were not in the best of condition. However, about nine o'clock on the following morning the clouds began to break away, the sun came out bright and clear and the people came rolling into town from every direction and by noon there were several thousand people in the city waiting for the big parade which left the show grounds about 12:30. The parade was a good one and the mammoth herd of elephants, eleven of them, attracted much attention. Gollmar Bros. have added largely to their outfit since they visited this place three years ago and now have a very complete and up-to-date circus. The performances are good and they carry artists in every line as good as the best of them. The performing elephants are worth the price of admission alone. It is a wonderful sight to see those ponderous beasts go through the figures of a square dance. The fire scene is another splendid attraction. Every feature of the big show was good. There was no faking or short change artists with the circus but everything was conducted in a clean and business like manner. There were several thousand persons at the afternoon performance and we have not heard a single one complain; all went home pleased with the Gollmar Bros. circus. The employes are courteous and the members of the firm, together with the affable and good natured press agent, tried to treat everybody right.
