

Carl J. Watne met with a very unfortunate accident on Monday of this week. He was trying to tighten up a mud valve on his threshing engine and did not notice that the valve was cracked and it blew out under 140 pounds pressure, striking him in the face and parboiling one side of it. He was brought to the city and Dr. Westley afforded him all the relief possible. Mr. Watne certainly has a very bad face and his injuries are painful. The Courier hopes that he will soon recover from his injuries.
