

Thrown from Auto

W. H. Comrie, the popular grain man and traveling auditor for several elevator lines, received injuries last Saturday while on his way from Hannaford to Cooperstown in his automobile. He was accompanied by his son, who was driving the car, and when near the bridge at Bald Hill creek they saw a large stone in the road. In trying to dodge the stone they struck another one and Mr. Comrie was thrown violently from the car and struck the ground with considerable force, receiving injuries to his hip that were very painful and it is hard to tell how serious. He was brought to the city and Dr. Brimi's services were called for who fixed up the patient. Mr. Comrie was taken to Fargo on the afternoon train where he will receive medical treatment at his home. His many friends at Cooperstown and around the state regret the accident and hope that nothing serious will come of it.
