

You may talk about getting stung but if you want to know about the real article go talk to Rev. J. G. Dingle who can give you some pointers about being stung. He made a visit to Fred Williams apiary a few days ago and was rubbering around with a view no doubt of setting a line on the honey supply when out pops a good live bee, and taking exceptions to the presence of the divine, alighted on the eye of Mr. Dingle and inserted its little stinger as far as it could, leaving that optic swelled up almost as big as a toy balloon. If Mr. Williams makes any honey after this we feel sure that he cannot suspect Mr. Dingle for we miss our guess if he monkeys around a bee hive for many moons to come.
