

The way our people have been slaughtering the box elder trees the past week is a fright. The city looks like a timber camp. The harsh method used on the trees will probably save the life of many of them.