

The Congregational church has been wired for electric lights and fixtures will soon be installed so that the day of the old smoky kerosene lamp that has done such good service for the past twenty-five years has become a thing of the past. Mr. B. A. Parsons engineered the job of wiring and has done a very nice job which is greatly appreciated by all concerned in the fixing up of the church. J. N. Brown R. M. Cowen and others also furnished some valuable aid and assistance on this job which is also appreciated. The ladies' committee who have been in charge of the various works of renovation and fixing up of the church edifice both inside and out are entitled to much praise and thanks for the good work accomplished.
