

Cooperstown is to have a base ball club, several hundred dollars having been subscribed by the business men of the town to help the project along. A meeting was held in the fire hall last Friday night to talk over the question. A. M. Baldwin was elected manager, George R. Bergen assistant manager, J. L. Houghton, treasurer. A committee consisting of A. M. Baldwin, Ben Killeran and Art Carlander was appointed to look after securing ground outside the city of Cooperstown for the purpose of playing ball Sundays. New suits have been ordered for the players. It is possible that two or three salaried players will be secured, the rest of the team being local talent.
