

Mr. Ladbury set a trap in his yard the other night to catch the thief who was bothering his chickens, and during the night there was a good deal of noise in the neighborhood of the trap so Mr. Ladbury went out to see what was the matter but couldn't see anything so he put his hand in and pulled out the trap. He found out then and so did the neighborhood, what he had caught. They all gave him the laugh in the morning but he couldn't see the joke.