

During the past week B. A. Parsons has acquired the Hammer & Condy stock in the Jimeson-Olson company business and on April first will take an active interest in the business, succeeding Arnt O. Olson, who has resigned and who intends to remove from the city. Mr. Parsons has not had any experience in the mercantile business but he is a first-class bookkeeper and will soon get the hang of the business. He is a rustler and we expect he will make good. His friends will find him doing business at the corner store in a few days.
